JOINS DWYER BEHIND BARS FOR SLAYING

Weeping Wife Bids Good-bye To Ex-Deputy, Sentenced To Life In Killing.

JURORS OUT FIVE HOURS

Barbara, Key Figure In Strange Case, At Movie As Panel Brings In Verdict.

(By United Press)

SOUTH PARIS, Me.—Deposed Deputy Sheriff Francis M. Carroll was taken to Thomaston state prison today to begin a life sentence for which another has confessed and now is in prison for life.

At Thomaston he will be placed in the same prison where his accuser, Paul (Buddy) Dwyer, 19, already is serving a life sentence for the same murder, that of Dr. James G. Littlefield, elderly South Paris physician.

It was Dwyer's testimony, charging that Carroll had intimidated him into confessing a murder he did not commit, that brought Carroll's conviction last night.

Wife Bids Him Farewell.

Carroll this morning received a farewell visit from his wife at the county jail today as he awaited the arrival of guards to take him to state prison.

There were tears in the eyes of Mrs. Ruby Carroll as she walked from the cell block aften an hour's visit. Her 14-year-old daughter Betty was dry-eyed, but Betty's cousin, Lenore Carroll, 17, who was with them, was sobbing.

Although Mrs. Carroll in the courtroom yesterday was overheard telling her husband that their 17-year-old daughter Barbara—key figure in the case—had signed a $1,000-a-month contract with a New York night club, she said today:

"Neither Barbara nor I have signed anything yet."

Whether Dwyer will now receive a pardon was problematical. His counsel, E. Walker Abbott, announced that "I'll take care of Paul Dwyer when the proper time comes." This was taken to mean that he would apply for one.

SEEK $108,000 LOAN FOR RELIEF

City, County And Township Heads Confer With State Officials Monday.

City, county and Madison township officials will go to Columbus Monday to see what can be done about borrowing $108,000 to pay relief bills for the balance of 1938.

At a meeting with the county commissioners and County Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott yesterday, township trustees took under consideration a borrowing plan that calls for the issuance of notes against anticipated state taxes—the same plan that is now being studied by city officials.

Township trustees and county commissioners said they would ask city officials to accompany them to Columbus Monday in order to obtain more detailed information concerning the borrowing plan that allows the sub-divisions to issue notes against 90 per cent of anticipated receipts on beer, malt, wort, admissions and public utility excise taxes, through 1941.

City Solicitor Marion D. Ward pointed out that under the plan Richland county sub-divisions would be able to obtain approximately $108,000, of which Mansfield would get $70,000.

City officials said, however, that

GERMAN PLANE ON WAY HOME

Brandenburg's Commander Hopes to Reach Berlin In 20 Hours With Tailwind.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK—(UP)—A radio message from the German monoplane Brandenburg, placing the ship about 120 miles northeast of Boston was intercepted by the coast guard station at Floyd Bennett field shortly after 10 a. m., (EST) today.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — The German land monoplane Brandenburg took off from Floyd Bennett field at 8:02:50 a. m. (EST) today for a nonstop flight to Berlin over the Atlantic great circle route.

Capt. Alfred Henke, commander of the crew of three, said he expected to reach Berlin in 20 hours if there was a tailwind. Berlin is 3,950 miles away. The Brandenburg landed here Thursday afternoon, completing a nonstop westward flight from Berlin in 24 hours and 58 minutes against the prevailing west winds.

One hundred policemen were on hand to control the small crowd that saw the take-off.

With Henke were the three men who accompanied him on the east-west flight — Rudolf Von Moreau, co-pilot; Paul Dierberg, flight engineer, and Walter Kober, radio operator.

The sleek, four-motored craft took off after a run of about 2,000 feet.

Committees Prepare for Fall Drive

Bierly Announces He Will Not Seek Re-election as G. O. P. Head.

As Democratic and Republican central committees prepared today for reorganization meetings prior to the opening of the Richland county fall political campaign, Glenn L. Bierly, Republican executive committee chairman, announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election.

At the same time, E. B. Kallmerten, county Democratic chairman, criticized by some Democrats for participation in the Martin L. Davey-Charles Sawyer fight for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said he would be a candidate for a second term as executive chairman. Kallmerten conducted an aggressive campaign for Davey.

G. O. P. Meet Friday.

Bierly's decision to withdraw as a candidate for the Republican chairmanship will provide an important item of business for Republican central committeeman when they meet to reorganize next Friday. At that time, central committeemen will select an executive committee and the executive committee itself will select a chairman.

Bierly was defeated as a central committeeman in his precinct, L. of the Third ward, in Tuesday's primary by James V. Will. The vote was 45 to 28.

The Republican chairman said his defeat as a committeeman did not influence his decision not to seek the chairmanship. He has served as chairman 10 months, filling the unexpired term of Carlton Fernyak.

"I had decided some time ago not to be a candidate as chairman," Bierly said. "I found in the 10 months I had served that I could not give the position the time it requires."

Kallmerten, meanwhile, said that Democrats will make a concerted effort to support the state and county tickets, declaring "the primaries are over, the candidates have been decided and its time to forget any sore spots."

"I supported Gov. Davey during the primary as an individual," Kallmerten added. "At no time was the committee used in connection with my efforts to campaign for his nomination. I supported Davey because what he had done for individuals and industry in Richland county.

"I promised Sawyer prior to the

PWA APPROVES GRANT TO CITY FOR BUILDINGS

Spurs Plans For Submitting Bond Issue To Voters For Second Time.

CASH NOW 'EARMARKED'

Arlin, Board Head, Plans To Go To Columbus To Get Special Election Data.

Close on the heels of the announcement yesterday that the Mansfield school district had until Oct. 1 to vote $550,000 in bonds for its building program, came word today that the PWA had actually earmarked its share of the undertaking—$450,000—for the work.

Actual allocation of funds was regarded as a vital step in resubmitting the bond issue plan to the voters of the school district at a special election, as the result of the defeat of the bond issue by a narrow margin last Tuesday.

Spurs Election Chances.

Although the request for a federal grant had been approved, the money had not been actually allocated. Harold W. Arlin, president of the board of education, and a leader in the school bond campaign, said yesterday that he felt the actual allocation of the money to Mansfield would enhance the building program's chances in a special election.

Announcement that the money had been granted came shortly before noon today from L. A. Boulay, state director of the PWA. Arlin could not be reached immediately for comment or for a statement as to what move the board would now make.

Yesterday's ruling from PWA in Washington said that local subdivisions which had rejected public works improvements in which the federal government was to share, through defeating bond issues for the subdivision's share of the cost, had until Oct. 1 to provide local funds.

Conference Planned.

That made a special election mandatory, if the school board planned to resubmit the question, since the general election would not be held until more than a month after the deadline set by PWA.

It was reported today that Arlin planned to confer Monday in Columbus with election officials in the office of the secretary of state on the details of a special election.

Of a total of 9,182 votes cast on the school bond issue last Tuesday, there were 5,558 in favor of it, a margin of 60.5 per cent. However, a 65 per cent majority was required.

Testifies CIO Has Communist Backing

A. F. of L. Official Testifies Before House Committee; Says Rank and File Opposes Reds; Ready to 'Name Names.'

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—John P. Frey, American Federation of Labor official, told the house committee investigating un-American activities today he would offer evidence that John L. Lewis and his Committee for Industrial Organization "have been officially endorsed" by the Communist party.

The A. F. of L. spokesman testified he would prove "the Communist party in the United States completely scrapped its program in 1935 so that it could secure a controlling position with the CIO."

The party made no headway in this country, Frey said, until the CIO was organized but since then communism "has become a definite factor in the American labor movement."

Four Statements Ready.

Frey had four prepared statements as he began his testimony. He asserted that in the final one of these said he would identify presidents and officers of national CIO unions who were members of the Communist party.

Frey said the majority of CIO members were not Communists and "are opposed to communism."

The CIO is not yet a communist organization, so far as the great majority of the rank and file is concerned," he declared.

"The fact seem to be that the CIO membership unwittingly became a carrier for the virus of communism because of the attitude of its leadership."

"The sitdown strike and mass picketing," he testified, "have been used by the communists in our country as a training camp in which communists can become familiar with the tactics they are to apply when their revolutionary program is put into action."

Frey was the only witness called for the second day's hearings of the special committee which heard testimony yesterday that Nazi propaganda was being disseminated and Nazi spies were operating through German-American organizations in the United States.

Asked if he would mention John L. Lewis, CIO chief, in his testimony, Frey replied:

"How could I avoid it?"

FOUR MORE TAX FORECLOSURES FILED IN COURT

Special Prosecutor Warns Installment Paying Plan To End Sept. 10.

Four tax foreclosure suits were filed in common pleas court today as Richland county officials pressed their campaign to reduce the county's total estimated delinquent tax bill of $186,000.

The suits filed by Marshall C. Moore, special prosecutor for tax delinquencies, involved real estate in Madison township, Worthington township, Butler and Lexington.

Named In Suits.

Foreclosure sale of five lots in Madison township is sought in an action against Mike Shuff, et al.; sale of 16 acres in Worthington township is sought in a suit against Susan Miller, et al.; sale of one lot in Butler is asked in an action brought against Angeline Hissong, and sale of a lot in Lexington is sought in an action which names Thelma E. Whiteleather as defendant

In commenting on the delinquent tax situation today, Moore reminded property owners whose taxes are delinquent that the Whittemore installment payment act expires Sept. 10.

This means, he said, that new applications for installment payments must be received prior to that time. Ie delinquent payees desire to benefit by the omission of interest and penalties on accounts which were delinquent prior to 1936.

Approximately 2,000 are now paying delinquent accounts on the Whittemore installment basis, Moore said.

SEEK $108,000 LOAN FOR RELIEF

City, County And Township Heads Confer With State Officials Monday.

the question is whether the total amount, which is needed immediately, can be borrowed at this time or whether it must be borrowed at intervals through the years in which it runs.

Although the legislature passed the $7,000,000 relief bill as an emergency and set up a method to retire the notes, Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy ruled in Columbus today that local municipalities must stand ready to pay back their own notes or bonds issued under the act.

The United Press quoted Duffy as saying the notes and bonds were general obligations of the issuing sub-divisions although the act provides that payments are to be made out of anticipated tax receipts.

Duffy also held the notes or bonds were not subject to the 10-mill debt limitation of municipalities.

The ruling was made preparatory to the sale of poor relief bonds which have been authorized in several counties by the state tax commission.

Meanwhile Madison township trustees said that a 50 per cent relief order would be issued to the 340 families in Madison township Tuesday.

The action authorizing Relief Director Earl A. Nist to issue the orders was taken at yesterday's meeting in face of a warning from County Prosecutor Marriott that the expenditure was "illegal."

Marriott explained to board members that they could not legally incur obligations without money in their relief funds, and pointed out that they were personally liable for the bills contracted.

C. M. Chatlain, a member of the board, said that the authorization was made on the grounds that they could borrow on anticipated state taxes

"However, should we fail to obtain the funds, it will mean the end of the administration of relief in Madison township," he said.

"There is no alternative," John Sely, another member of the board declared. "We are receiving an allocation of $1,000 monthly from the state while our relief bills are piling up at the rate of $4,000 a month"

He said the township was now more than $5,000 in debt and no money in sight with which to pay them.

SERMON TOPIC

'Soul' Subject of Scientists' Lesson Tomorrow.

"Soul" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

The Golden Text is: "Hear me speedily, O Lord: . . . cause me to hear thy loving kindness in the morning; for in thee do I trust: cause me to know the way wherein I should walk; for I lift up my soul unto thee" (Psalms 143: 7,8).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "But if the wicked will turn from all his sins that he hath committed, and keep all my statutes, and do that which is lawful and right, he shall surely live, he shall not die" (Ezekiel 18:21).

CHAPTER 15

NOEL AWAKENED early the next morning. The scene with Nick Luigi was still fresh in her mind. How she had loathed the touch of his arms and how thankful she was that she had managed to keep him from actually kissing her lips.

Last night when she had come home she had washed her face in the bowl of cold water and then she had washed it again in a sort of cold fury. Laurie had sleepily opened one eye, and seemed to be wondering what it was all about But she was evidently too sleepy to ask.

Noel sat up in bed and saw that Laurie was dressed in her neat but faded pink slip, ready to put on her skirt and blouse She looked at Noel, and asked, "Nick kissed you last night, didnt he?"

"He almost did." Noel admitted ruefully. "Ugh! How I hate him."

"I was afraid of that," Laurie said seriously

"He wont try it again," Noel said confidently "Besides, I just feel it in my bones that I'm going to get a job today"

"I hope you do, honey," Laurie said warmly. Then she asked if Noel wanted some coffee before she left for work A smile of anticipation crossed Noel's face Then she jumped up "I'll make it. You're always waiting on me. And I can do it as well as you can now—almost."

"Yea—almost," Laurie teased. She gave Noel a little push, made her sit down in the wooden rocker and, in a few minutes, she had the coffee ready. Then she gave Noel her robe, made of striped towel cloth, and had her put it on over her thin pajamas

* * *

A minute later she brought the coffee in the chipped cup with the unmatched saucer. "I call this service," Noel said with a smile. Then she added seriously, "Honestly, Laurie, I didn't know there were girls like you, so unselfish and so—so darn sweet." There was a little break in Noel's voice

"You wouldn't kid me, would you, honey?" Laurie asked with a flush. "And I didn't know there were girls like you, either," she continued. "You have to work for every dime you have, and yet you put on airs like a duchess. Not that I mind," she hastened to say. "only it seems a little queer."

"Do you think it is noticeable to—other people?" Noel asked.

"No," Laurie answered thoughtfully. "And you're getting over it a lot now. I suppose you had money once and lost it. And it takes time to get—used to a thing like that."

Noel was silent for a moment Then she smiled "You're a good guesser, Laurie. It was—something like that. And I want to learn how to do everything you know, just in case—," but Noel couldn't finish.

"Just in case you marry a poor man," Laurie supplied for her. Noel let it go at that.

Presently she said, "We've been together quite a little while now, Laurie, and I don't know a thing about you, except that I couldn't possibly help liking you even if I tried."

"Well, that's something," Laurie tried to laugh "There's nothing to tell about me, really. I'm just like hundreds of other girls in the city There isn't much to look forward to."

"How about love? Don't you expect to have it some day?"

Laurie took the cup and saucer from Noel and placed it on the washstand "No," she said. Noel saw that her lower lip trembled a little as she spoke. But she went on. "That's out for me I am—I mean, I was in love, but nothing could—can ever come of it. And I'm old-fashioned enough to believe that you can't ever really love more than once."

"I'm afraid that's the way I believe, too," Noel admitted "It seems strange to believe that way when people nowadays are so—so frivolous about love."

"You're in love with Doctor Paige, aren't you?" Laurie said abruptly.

Noel started and flushed. "Have I given myself away so completely as that?" she asked with a self-conscious laugh.

Laurie nodded "With every look and every word you say to him. Of course he wouldn't see it, but most any woman would, it's so—so plain"

Noel, still flushed, was thinking rapidly "Do you think Julian—Doctor Paige—suspects it at all?"

There was a moment of suspense while Laurie considered the question. She said thoughtfully, "Men are very queer, you know. They never see the things women do. I don't believe he has the slightest idea."

Noel drew a long breath. "You see," she went on at last, "sometimes I'm not even sure that he likes me at all, except casually. And sometimes I almost fool myself into believing that—he does."

* * *

Laurie answered in her sweet serious way. "But I do really believe he likes you. You see, he's a very busy man, and wrapped up in his work. He may care for you in a serious way and not even know it himself It would be wonderful if he did, for not many girls like us ever have a chance to marry a man like Doctor Paige."

Noel said a little unhappily to herself, "And girls not like us don't have a chance, either, it seems."

Then Noel saw that Laurie was looking at her, as if wondering whether she should say something else. Then she decided to go on "Listen, Noel, I suppose you know Ruth Chester. She follows Doctor Paige around all the time. She's actually bossy with him, and listen, if there's any earthly way for her to get him, she's going to do it."

"I know that," Noel admitted in a low voice.

"Don't let her have him," Laurie insisted "You're just as pretty as she is, even prettier, I think. Of course beauty isn't everything, but it counts a lot with a man."

"Brains count a lot more," Noel said sadly. "And Ruth Chester has them. As for me, I'm beginning to believe I haven't a brain in my head."

"You little sap, don't be ridiculous!" Laurie exclaimed tenderly.

In the afternoon Noel got the job. It was in a laundry, of all places, where for the sum of $8 a week, she was to sit on a high stool, answer telephones and take down addresses of places to call for soiled clothes, and wrap the neat piles of fresh laundry as it was brought to her, after listing the items on a printed form.

* * *

Laurie had advised her not to quit Luigi's until she was sure she was making good on the new job, which proved to be splendid advice. For three days after she obtained the laundry job she was fired from it. The young manager explained regretfully that she wasn't fast enough.

So Noel was back right where she started.

At noon on the day she was fired she went to the De Luxe They made the best sandwiches in town there, she told herself, and laughed a little hollowly at the subterfuge. She hadn't seen or heard from Julian since Sunday And of course she was going to the De Luxe in the hope of seeing him. Why were women in love such fools?

But when Noel had finished her milk and sandwich, Julian hadn't shown up She went up to the register to pay her small check and stood there for a moment talking to Laurie And then she saw Julian coming out of the Medical Arts. Her heart gave a little jump and thudded against her side.

* * *

Julian stopped, lighted a cigaret, and for a moment it looked as if he would cross the street to the De Luxe. Then the revolving doors whirled again and Ruth Chester came out. She took his arm, and they went on down the street.

Laurie's soft brown eyes were alight with sympathy. "Don't mind it so much, honey," she said "He didn't know you were here"

SATURDAY, AUGUST 13, 1938.

Drive carefully tomorrow—do your share in making Ohio highways safer.

Sometime, but maybe not soon, Douglas Corrigan can write an interesting true story of that flight.

There's all kinds of people, including those who haven't the money to pay the doctor when the new baby comes—because it was so unexpected.

It appears that instead of becoming rich as an insurance agent Jimmy Roosevelt made only a meager $25,000 to $50,000 a year—which, to a Roosevelt, is probably verging on poverty.

Senator George Accepts Challenge.

WHEN President Roosevelt stood on a platform in Barnesville, Georgia, Thursday, and demanded defeat of Democratic Senator Walter F. George, who has served in the senate for sixteen years, he virtually told the voters of that state that they were incapable of doing their own deciding and must look to him for instructions—much as Hitler might do in Germany, Mussolini in Italy or Stalin in Russia.

This amazing insolence was immediately met by Senator George, who crossed the platform to say: "Mr. Roosevelt, I regret that you have taken this occasion to question my Democracy and to attack my public record. I want you to know that I accept the challenge."

It has been the Roosevelt attitude, throughout, that it is his "right" to tell the people of various states how they should vote, and that their vote should be as HE thinks, rather than as they think. With an egoism that has possibly never before been equalled in American public life, President Roosevelt seems to conclude that all who differ with him are wrong and that HE ALONE IS RIGHT.

In the main, Senator George has supported the administration—but that was apparently not enough—he had reserved the right, on occasion, to think for himself instead of classifying among the subservient "rubber stamp" senators who had previously been accorded presidential approval.

Defeat of New Deal Senator Pope, in the Idaho primaries, together with the body blows previously administered to Roosevelt favorites in Iowa, Missouri, Colorado, Texas and Virginia, indicate not only resentment of the attempted "purge" but also evidence an awakening of many voters to the fallacies of administration policies and extravagances.

Unless voters can be credited with competence to choose their own officials and representatives, freed from dictation by President Roosevelt, or anyone else, then the vaunted democracy of America has scant chance for long continuance.

Imperfect Prosperity.

BUSINESS MEN grow increasingly willing to "stick their necks out" by forecasting a definite upturn. Recently twenty executives in diversified lines in various cities in the United States were asked what they thought about early business betterment.

The answers were not only optimistic, but in most cases the optimism for fall and for next year was based upon improvement already observed.

There are pessimists around, too, who point out that, in their opinion, nothing has happened yet to justify confidence in real business revival. Perhaps each group is partly right. There may be exceptionally good business in some spots, merely normal in others and continued poor business in yet others. In spite of heroic efforts, no country in the world has reached such economic balance that agriculture and industry and business all move forward uniformly to prosperity or backward to depression. Production has been mastered in America, at least, but distribution is still far from perfect.

Germany Against Germany.

THE Nazi steam roller presses on. The latest masterpiece is revocation of the licenses of all Jewish physicians in the country. Their licenses will be void after Sept. 30. A few exceptions may be allowed "until further notice" and there may be some "maintenance grants" for those who served at the front during the World war, but they will not alleviate much the vast wrong done 6,000 or 7,000 physicians.

This order, like those affecting other Jewish groups, is based on the Nurnberg racial laws which class as Jews all Germans having as much as one Jewish grandparent and regard them merely as "subjects." not citizens.

Quite aside from considerations of humanity and justice, such a policy seems suicidal in any modern civilized country. The medical profession in Germany stands as high, perhaps, as any in the world, and it is well known that Jews of scientific and scholarly bent make excellent physicians. But this is not a question of excellence in medical service—it is a matter of medieval race-prejudice.

Therein the Nazi government seems, to many outsiders, to be doing Germany itself almost as much wrong as it is doing these helpless citizens.

Half-Million for Horses.

THE HORSE is not yet obsolete. Evidence of this is found in Australia, where a generous lover of animals left half a million dollars to build drinking troughs. There are about 400 of them built already in Victoria, and work will soon be extended to New South Wales.

An impressive thing about these troughs is that they are not for horses only. There is also a fountain above for thirsty human beings, and a small trough below for dogs. It seems strange, when you think of it, that so little provision has been made out of doors, in most places, for these two groups to quench their thirst.

Word comes that a correspondence school now lists a course in lion taming—and it's all right if the taming can also be done by mail.

"Tobacco Road" is now in its fifth year on Broadway—a younger generation being anxious to learn how the other half lives.

A recent booklet, "Tax Reduction, and How to Accomplish It," is at least temporarily being listed in the fiction section.

Money comes by slow freight but leaves by airplane.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — Country visitors get to see more of what there is to see in this town in their usual three days' stay than the average native sees in a whole lifetime.

That may sound foolish but I have run into more than one sample of native Washingtonian who never has set foot on the White House grounds although they are open every day. Even part of the White House may be visited by casual folk during forenoons from 10 to 12.

A neighbor of mine has lived 50 years in Washington—was born here—and in that time has repeatedly toured the country east and west, inspecting "spots" in San Francisco, New York and New Orleans. But he has never seen the senate in session, has never seen President Roosevelt (and says he doesn't want to), and was in the Smithsonian Institution only once, when a visiting relative insisted on being taken there.

* * *

Home Town Pride.

AFTER lunch the other day a young engineer walked with me past the White House and remarked that in 11 years in Washington he never had set foot in the building, although he had wanted to ever since coming. By the time he gets off work, the major federal activities also have shut down.

"Why don't you take a couple of days of your vacation and see the town?"

The idea seemed to appeal to him for a moment, but suddenly he blurted:

"People would think I was crazy."

So instead he will go to New York again for half his vacation and spend the rest on the seashore. Arriving in New York he will meet New Yorkers boarding trains for Washington to see the White House and ride up to the top of Washington Monument.

When I made that observation to a New York friend one time he well nigh cut me down.

"You don't see any New Yorkers leaving this town to visit Washington," he said. "Those are just trainloads of homesick Washington yokels heading for home."

* * *

Cool Subject Encore.

ONCE before it was written in this column that the air cooling systems in the big federal buildings are not all that could be asked as promoters of health. A physician said that since they were installed this summer practice has increased remarkably — sore throats and colds. The federalisti stay cool as cream until mid-afternoon when they plunge out into blistering temperatures to go home. The shock gets them.

The new Interior building is worst. Honest, they chill the help in that place until the stenographers have frost on 'em. Secretary Ickes didn't go to Alaska to see the scenery. He went up there to get warm.

This travelog can't be ended without your hearing of Louis Bean. He came from Odessa, Russia, a number of years ago, unable to speak English. Now he has a string of degrees and is statistical adviser to Secretary Wallace of Agriculture. He was chatting with Secretary Wallace before leaving for New Orleans on departmental business.

"Louis," said the under-secretary, "if you'll come to my office before you go I'll give you a hot list of telephone numbers."

Secretary Wallace smiled and asked Bean.

"Louie, what would you do with a list of telephone numbers?"

"Oh," grinned Louie the Statistician, "I'd add 'em all together and divide by 10."

Timely Editorial

When a Business Closes.

A clothing manufacturing plant at Springfield, Mo., may be reopened again after a long labor controversy, according to Ernest C. Dunbar, regional director of the national labor relations board. The technique has been used before. The board simply asks the dismissed employes or contending union to withdraw charges so that the company can go to work again.

This indicates the fundamental difficulty of dictating to business. If the terms for operating a business are too harsh the owner always can close down. Such drastic action leaves the labor board in the embarrassing position of having to settle a dispute for employes who are no longer employed and a business that no longer is doing business

The situation seems to be fundamental. The fact remains that the owners of a business do have the final word as to when they are justified in operating and what costs they can afford. All the protracted labor board hearings of the last year haven't changed the old rules of arithmetic.—Kansas City Star.

Blames G.O.P. For Iowa's Plight

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Franklin Waltman, the G. O. P.'s publicity director, had a lot of fun the other day with Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

Henry was invited to his native state of Iowa to keynote at its Democratic convention. Now Iowa pre-eminently is a farm state and, due to bumper crops, farm product prices generally are pretty low this year.

"What to do? Poor Henry Wallace!" remarked Franklin.

"But Henry," continued Brother Waltman, "does not have high-priced ghost writers for nothing. 'If you cannot boast about the New Deal,' they said, 'blame it on the Republicans. Tell those Iowans that the G. O. P. is responsible for what is happening in 1938, even though the Republicans have been out of power since March 4, 1933'."

* * *

BUT—"CAPABLY ADVISED"

So, in effect, Henry did that, greatly to Frank's entertainment.

But the fact is, as I see it, Henry was capably advised by his ghost writers.

I know a good bit about Iowa. I wasn't born there, as were Henry and Works Administration Harry L. Hopkins, but for 16 years I grew up in the state; I'm almost a native.

In my day Iowa was rockbound Republican territory by approximately 80,000 each election day. To be sure, Horace Boies did serve a couple of Democratic terms as governor, but he did so not as a Democrat, but as a wet. Statewide prohibition had prevailed. The state was dissatisfied with it. The Republicans could not read the wet-and-dry signs of the times. Therefore Boies was a two-time winner. He did modify the dry law. That having been accomplished, the commonwealth reverted to its normal Republicanism and stayed that way until it literally was starved out of it in 1932.

* * *

WHY IT WAS

I know why Iowa was Republican. It was settled by Union soldiers, and their sons and grandsons inherited their Republicanism.

Well, national Republicanism was ultra-protectionistic in that era. Cracking high tariffs were its motto. Iowa's Republican agriculturists fell for this policy as sound Republican doctrine, obvious as it was to any agricultural area's disadvantage. In the long run it is to industry's disadvantage likewise, but agriculture ought to have seen it sooner.

Consider the position of a state like Iowa!

So far as its domestic requirements were concerned it overproduced and needed foreign markets. Yet it stuck to the theory of high import taxation with a view to developing an overseas demand for its farm products.

* * *

A FUTILE ATTEMPT

Of course such reasoning was absolutely contradictory.

Iowa congressmen (and those of other northern farm states) realized it after a fashion. They tried to hit on schemes of unfairly subsidizing agriculture to put it on an equality with industry's unfair subsidization. The bygone McNary-Haugen bill (fathered by today's upper house Republican leader, Senator Charles L. McNary, and by the late Representative Gilbert N. Haugen) was an example.

The McNary-Haugen bill passed congress, too, but was vetoed by President Coolidge as uneconomic. Sure it was.

It was an attempt to correct an uneconomic system by making it more uneconomic.

* * *

BAD EFFECTS

All this was Republican dope.

It appears to me likely that its bad effects are slopping over into the curernt epoch, ten or twenty years later; repercussions are belated.

Listen, World!

It's the "Second Wind"

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

DR. DAVID SEABURY—wise healer of sick spirits—once said this, "YOUR 'SECOND WIND' IS THE ONE THAT BLOWS YOUR ARGOSIES TO SHORE."

The "second wind"—what a mighty difference it would make in all our lives if we'd bank on that "second wind" and not give up when our first enthusiasm was spent!

Queer experience, feeling that "second wind" hit your exhausted lungs. Ever have it happen to you, Buddy? I did just once—unforgettably. Gives me a shudder even yet to think of it. But it's a good tale to pass on. Who knows—maybe some other poor devil is just about to give up, too—

It was this way. I'd been prospecting alone—out on the desert. No one around, except an Indian half-breed squaw with a year-old toddler, camping near a clump of greasewood. I'd struck a good prospect, had forgotten her, when she let out a scream that brought me up standing. One look and I got it. She was sprawled headlong . . . sobbing . . . screaming prayers . . . clutching at her baby's foot. And a yard away, a four-foot rattler was fading into the chamise.

Rattlesnake bite—and the nearest serum in my own camp, three miles away! No man around . . . no car! Three miles and nothing but my own feet to take me there, with the thought of that bloating baby face, those glazing baby eyes and—sharper than a wolf's howl—that frantic mother's cries.

"Oh, Jesu-Maria help me . . . save this, my little one . . . Great Father in heaven have mercy . . . RUN, SENORA, RUN!"

Teeth set, fists clenched, I ran. With my heavy, spiked boots fighting the clutch of that flaming sand . . . and never a living thing moving in all of that devilish land.

And now one mile has passed. A-n-d n-o-w i-t w-a-s t-w-o . . . And, vague as a glistening shadow, the camp lay far ahead . . . But could I manage to make it? The blood roared thick in my head . . . Perhaps if I rested a moment? But, then, the babe would be dead! But, oh God, my lungs were closing . . . my feet would no longer lift . . . the darkness was wheeling before me—

When, suddenly, full and swift, a fresh, new strength rushed through me . . . my feet began to fly . . . the "second wind" had come to me—

And that baby did not die.

* * *

STRANGE that a thing like that can happen to a body, isn't it? And even stranger that it can happen to a soul. Yet it does. As once and over I've seen it happen.

"RUN!" comes the command into our life. And sometimes it's need that drives us, and sometimes it's love, or the lust of adventure or the thirst for knowledge. But always it's something that calls for all we have—and we give it, willingly. Give in a great surge of eagerness and enthusiasm and faith.

And, for a while, perhaps, all goes well. On we race—and on—swinging ourselves in great, triumphant strides over all obstacles. But presently, our stride begins to slacken . . . our interest begins to lag . . . our enthusiasm to cool. We're not so sure as we were at first. We wonder, if the game is worth the effort, after all? It's such hard, such dangerous work! Suppose we take it easy . . . play safe. Suppose we admit we're licked and—quit?

And many of us do, just that. Give up—thinking we've come to the end. But we haven't! Not unless we want to. There's always a reserve strength somewhere . . . some Power backing us, greater and stronger than our ordinary selves . . . SOME SECOND WIND OF THE SOUL THAT WILL SEND US ON TO VICTORY . . . IF WE'LL GIVE IT A CHANCE!

SYMBOLISM: In the shadow of thy wings will I make my refuge. —Psalms 57:1.

What's Happened?

A Week-End Summary of Current Events.

FIVE STATES, Tennessee, Kentucky, Arkansas, Ohio and Idaho, have held U. S. senatorial primaries in the last 10 days, and there will be no more senatorial elections until California and South Carolina vote Aug. 30.

It's Bulkley vs. Taft.

In Ohio, New Deal Sen. Robert J. Bulkley, Harvard classmate of Franklin D. Roosevelt, easily defeated ex-Gov. George White in the Democratic senatorial race. And Republicans pinned their hopes of unseating Bulkley on a president's son, Robert A. Taft, who is against use of "government money and relief to maintain the New Deal in power."

Ex-Attorney General John W. Bricker had no opposition for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. But there was a hot fight between Gov. Martin L. Davey and ex-Lt. Gov. Charles Sawyer for designation as the Democratic nominee for governor. After they had run neck-and-neck for hours, Davey wired congratulations to Sawyer.

Twenty of Ohio's incumbent congressmen were renominated.

New Dealer Loses.

In Idaho, Sen. James Pinckney Pope, 54, who never opposed an administration bill and who was spoken well of by Postmaster General Farley and Secretary of State Hull, conceded Wednesday that Rep. D. Worth Clark, 36, had beaten him. Clark campaigned for the senatorial nomination as a conservative Democrat.

Barkley Survives.

In Kentucky, Gov. A. B. Chandler conceded the Democratic senatorial nomination to President Roosevelt's self-designated "yes man," Alben W. Barkley, when counting of the ballots cast on Saturday was resumed last Monday. Barkley's majority proved to be the biggest ever piled up in a Kentucky primary. "Dear Alben" has represented Kentucky in Washington a quarter of a century. He keynoted the '32 and '36 Democratic national conventions. And a year ago he became the party's senate leader.

Mrs. Caraway's Race.

In Arkansas, where a Democratic nomination generally is equivalent to election, Sen. Hattie W. Caraway and Gov. Carl E. Bailey, New Dealers, sought renomination and won.

Mrs. Caraway, President Roosevelt's "old friend," was opposed by Rep. John L. McClellan.

Crump Candidates Win.

In Tennessee, Sen. George L. Berry lost to A. Tom Stewart, a district attorney general, 100 per cent for Roosevelt, backed by Democratic National Committeeman E. H. Crump and Sen. Kenneth McKellar.

Another Crump-McKellar candidate, Prentice Cooper, wrested the Democratic gubernatorial nomination from Gov. Gordon Browning, who had appointed Berry to the senate.

In Nebraska, Democratic Gov. R. L. Cochran made an unprecedented bid for a third term and was renominated with ease Tuesday. To oppose him this fall, Republicans picked Charles J. Warner, the first unicameral legislature's speaker. All five of Nebraska's U. S. representatives (four Democrats, one Republican) were renominated. No senate seats were involved.

At Home

Crop Report.

U. S. forecasts of 1938 crops announced this week were: Cotton, 11,988,000 bales; wheat, 955,989,000 bushels; corn, 2,566,221,000 bushels.

That's more corn than was expected in July, but less than was produced last year. The farm law requires officials to poll farmers on the question of a corn marketing quota when "excessive" supplies are indicated. The agriculture department decided, on a basis of this week's estimate, that a referendum is not necessary. So corn growers will be free to sell or feed all the grain they produce this year.

* * *

Home to the Wars.

President Roosevelt, last month, called the south the nations "No. 1 Economic Problem." Then he left on a five-week speaking and fishing trip.

Last week-end in Memphis, Relief Chief Hopkins announced the New Deal would attack Problem No. 1 with WPA work for needy farmers between seasons.

Three days later, after a 25-day cruise from California by way of the Panama canal, the president landed at Pensacola, Fla., and headed north through Problem No. 1 and into the Democratic primary wars.

At Warm Spring, Ga., he invited Lawrence S. Camp to lunch Wednesday and said he hoped his guest would be "the next senator from this state." Camp is running for the Democratic nomination against Sen. Walter F. George (who has opposed many New Deal measures), ex-Gov. Eugene Talmadge and W. G. McCrea of Atlanta.

* * *

Peace-on-the-Hudson.

Father Divine's followers used to say, "Peace: It's wonderful!" Now they have a new slogan: "Peace! Ain't you glad?" They also have a new "heaven"—Krum-Elbow-On-The Hudson, just across the river from President Roosevelt's Hyde Park home. They bought it from Howland Spencer, whose political views are separated from FDR's by a gulf even wider than the river that separates their ancestral acres.

This week, chanting their new slogan and eating fried chicken, two boatloads of black angels rode up the Hudson to inspect their New Canaan where Father Divine hopes to establish a colony of 3,000 disciples.

* * *

Oriental Dysentery.

"Shiga dysentery," a virulent Oriental disease, recently killed six children in Owosso, Mich. A seventh Owosso child died Wednesday of dysentery, but physicians were uncertain at the time whether this child was a victim of "shiga" or a milder form of the disease. Physicians co-operated in combatting the outbreak and spoke optimistically when several days passed without a new case appearing.

QUOTES

Prof. Cyril Edwin Mitchinson Joad, British philosopher: "The superman made the airplane but the ape has got hold of it."

Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, W. C. T. U. president (re-elected this week): "Repeal will last 10 years at the most—maybe only five years."

Carl Laemmle, film veteran: "The world is getting too full of sacred cows. . . . It is almost imposible to make a picture any more without being sued or arrested or punished in some way."

Labor

The UAW 'Reds.'

Of seven officers elected unanimously at the United Auto Workers' convention last summer, only two, President Homer Martin and one vice president, still held their posts this week. Three vice presidents and the secretary-treasurer had been expelled and another vice president had been suspended.

The "ins" had found the expelled vice presidents guilty of "dealing" with communists. The "outs" said Jay Lovestone, ex-secretary of the communist party who now heads an independent communist labor league, dictated the verdict. And the "purged" group this week invited heads of local unions to a Toledo parley to launch a movement "to clean out the real enemies of the union."

* * *

Bridges and Bloc.

Harry Bridges, 38, powerful chief of Pacific coast longshoremen, is said to have survived two shipwrecks. And when four unions' officials recently quit his CIO industrial council at Los Angeles, he said they were merely "a loose splinter from an otherwise solid block."

The seceders were leaders of the ladies' garment workers, auto workers, rubber workers and shoe workers. They charged Bridges had disrupted CIO unions that "refused to hand themselves over to communist minorities," and they proposed to set up a Los Angeles trade union conference in opposition to the "Bridges-communist axis."

* * *

Rail Pay Row.

American railroads have proposed to cut 900,000 employes' pay 15 per cent, and conferences with workers' leaders have proven futile. So the national mediation board stepped in this week.

People

Corrigan's Reign.

Trailed by street sprinklers, Douglas Corrigan rode through a shower of paper from skyscraper windows last week in New York. The paper was washed into gutters, hastily shoveled into trucks, and weighed. It totaled 1,800 tons—as much as fell on Howard Hughes, but 100 tons less than "Lone Eagle" Lindbergh got. And this week Corrigan made a triumphal tour of other cities.

* * *

Last Bird Gets Caught.

Barbara Bird put her baby boy to bed, kissed her parents goodby, last fall in Cleveland, then (according to G-men) smuggled three pistols to her husband, his brother and another bandit in the county jail. They got away. But officers soon recaptured all the Bird gang save Barbara and her man, Charles Bird—who once rated as Public Enemy No. 2, according to J. Edgar Hoover.

This week blond Barbara, 24, and dark-haired, tattooed Charles Bird, 26, surrendered without a struggle when trapped by Baltimore police, who wanted them for a series of armed robberies.

* * *

Chicago Killings.

Seven gangster-style slayings within seven weeks was Chicago's score when last Tuesday's papers told of two that had occurred within 24 hours.

It was operated by Pan American Airways as a special service between Villahermosa and Mexico City and ran whenever business warranted.

An Airways official said he believed all the passengers were Mexicans except one who was booked as Eugene Carlson. It was not known where Carlson was from.

17 Reported Killed In Crashes In Germany, England.

STRASBOURG, France—(AP)—Reports reaching here today said a Czechoslovak plane crashed 16 miles east of Kehl, in Germany, killing 11 persons and seriously injuring five. The plane left Praha at 7 a. m. for Strasbourg and Paris.

First reports said the plane hit a 2,000-foot high mountain in a fog near the town of Oberkirch.

Heavy fog enveloped the Rhineland and a Lufthansa (German airline) plane on the Cologne to Frankfort route was reported down. Details, however, were lacking.

U. S. COMES TO AID OF HURON CELERY FARMS

Buys Produce To Counteract Slow Market; Needy To Be Given Crops Purchased.

CELERYVILLE—Faced with a bumper crop of celery and a slow market, the growers of this vicinity appealed to the federal government for aid.

Congressman Dudley White called this to the attention of the federal surplus commodities corporation and their director in Ohio, C. R. Clevenger, was dispatched to handle the situation.

At a meeting of the members of the Golden Rule Celery Growers and Shippers association Clevenger met with them and explained the set-up of this corporation.

Present also at the meeting were Guy S. Hammon, Huron county farm agent and John Berry of Washington.

As a result of the meeting six truckloads of celery will be delivered to Cleveland weekly. This will be purchased by the government and distributed among the relief clients there.

The celery must be No. 1 quality and will be government inspected.

The growers' committee for allotment is composed of Sam Donhof, Fred Vogel and John Buuma.

In addition to the $600 weekly which the growers will be paid by the government, it is expected that the greatest good will be indirect as it will remove much surplus celery from markets which are now flooded.

THEATER

"The Texans."

The screen continues its defense of the south in another pro-southern story of the post-war period, "The Texans," which the Ohio presents Sunday. It deals with the reconstruction of Texas after the war, the action revolving around a hapless Texas family caught in the whirlpool of carpetbaggers, scalawags, unbearable taxation and constant interference with private lives and properties. Randolph Scott, who played a soldier of the south in "So Red the Rose," is again a soldier for Dixie, pleading with his people for patience, urging them to forget old hatred and start building a new empire. Joan Bennet is a southern beauty who takes the opposite view and urges her state to secede. Besides these two, May Robson, Walter Brennen and Robert Barrat are in the cast.

* * *

"Joy of Living."

A sparkling cast, headed by Irene Dunne and young Douglas Fairbanks in "Joy of Living," presents a brand new theme for a comedy with music. The story deals with the pursuit of happiness, as it is understood by an irresponsible and irrepressible young man, and his attempts to make a young actress who has never lived and never had any fun, see it his way. A family that hangs onto the actress for what it can get out of her in the way of easy living provides the complications. The family becomes important to the entertainment value of the picture when it is understood that Alice Brady, Guy Kibbee, Eric Blore, Lucille Ball and Warren Hymer are it. Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing prison gives the screen another thriller in "Over the Wall." Both of these features will be shown at the Ritz Sunday.

* * *

"Letter of Introduction."

Andrea Leeds, who did a brief but stirring role in "Stage Door" and revealed herself to be an actress of more than ordinary ability, plays the romantic lead in "Letter Of Introduction," with George Murphy opposite her. It's a story of theatrical boarding houses and back stage dramas. Adolphe Menjou plays a matinee idol to whom the small town girl has a letter of introduction, and the letter changes the course of her life. Charlie McCarthy and his mentor, Edgar Bergen, have a little romance of their own with a show girl named Cora, and it takes the two of them to propose to her. Ann Sheridan, Eve Arden and Rita Johnson are supporting players. The picture will be the Madison attraction the first half of the week.

* * *

"Bulldog Drummond."

The first of the new Bulldog Drummond series comes to the Majestic tomorrow with John Howard in the role of the famous amateur detective which was first created on the screen by Ronald Colman. Several other players have played it since then, but Howard is to be featured in a series of plays revolving around the English soldier of fortune. Efforts of a powerful international spy ring to get hold of the greatest of English military secrets is the theme of "Bulldog Drummond In Africa." The Moroccan setting of the picture is the first time Drummond has appeared in anything but an English setting. Heather Angel, H. B. Warner, Reginald Denny and others are in the cast.

THE SQUAB

MY LITTLE GIRL came running in great excitement.

"Daddy, a little pigeon fell out of the nest! Its mother flew down to it, two times, and tried to load it on her back, but it rolled off. The poor thing will starve, way down there on the floor. Do come and look .... then tell me what to do!"

I went with her across the empty mow to a spot under the hay fork, on top of which was the pigeon's nest. There I saw a squab, over half as large as its mother, with bluish pin feathers starting on the tail and tips of wings. His legs were so weak that the homely little fellow could not stand. He did not seem afraid but looked so helpless and dependent that he won our deep interest.

I touched the protruding crop and found it quite well-filled. In the tender pouch, I could easily detect grains of wheat, bits of gravel, and three-corner grains of buckwheat, such as I had recently planted. I remembered how the flock of pigeons swooped and wheeled above the field, often alighting and remaining some time. I knew that the mother pigeon gathers food from wherever she can, and stores it in her crop. After a time she hurries home to feed her brood. I have seen her stand beside the nest and place her beak within the open mouth of her youngster, and pour the moistened contents of her crop down first one hungry throat and then another. I explained this method of heavy feeding.

"Squabs grow very fast and have large, tender breasts . . . a rare and tasty morsel for any table," I finished.

"But will its mother keep feeding it if it is out of the nest?"

"We'll wait and see," I said.

So we waited—and she did. The squab has remained upon the floor beneath the nest for several days. His crop is always full and he is growing fat and happy.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, August 14.

Sunday's horoscope is a rather routine one, according to the lunar transits. There may be short journeys, trivial changes of plans, a little social indulgence (or over indulgence) that might start strife or unpleasantness, perhaps in gambling or other modes of chance. Be wary with strangers.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which a great deal depends on their own good sense in hazarding or investing their funds, as there are possibilities of loss through speculation, gambling, the chicanery of strange persons or tricky propositions. Guard against social indulgences and extravagances in the wrong places.

A child born on this day may have a rather friendly nature. People may take advantage of it, but it may be roused to quarrels and vindictiveness when it realizes its "easiness." Its early training should be toward stability.

* * *

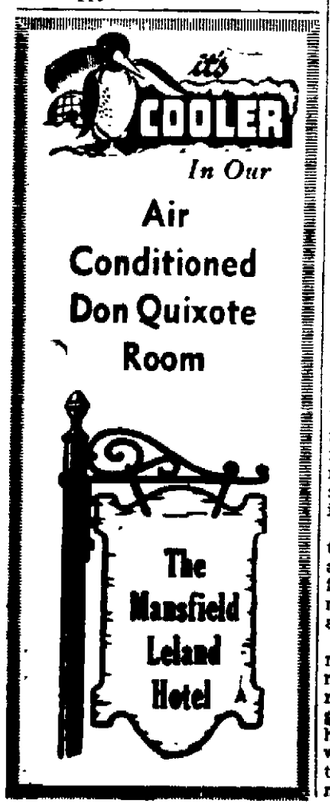
For Monday, August 15.

Monday's astrological forecast is for exceedingly active and enterprising operations both in the private and business lives. There is much to be done in launching new propositions or stimulating lagging affairs. The support of influential friends or those in high places may prove helpful. There may be a little friction in employment. In social, domestic and emotional affairs, stimulating conditions should reign.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of much enterprise and initiative, especially in putting over new plans and fresh objectives. This may be done with the co-operation of interested friends or influential persons in power. In the private life there also may be much stimulating activity.

A child born on this day may have much initiative and constructive talent, attracting important persons by its efficiency, energy and pleasant personality. It should have a very successful and happy life.



SOCIETY & CLUBS

Accessories Important to Style

Lovely Lucille Ball, film actress, is shown wearing a tricky new bracelet of pink crystals as she fastens a new type of pin on the collar of her becoming frock. The pin is a tiny gold hand holding a pink rose. Although these costume accessories add a charming touch to her ensemble, you will have to agree that the frock would be lovely enough without them. It is a Quaker type dress of lightweight wool in gray, trimmed in men's cotton shirting in striped Paris pink The film star's crushable antelope fez in Paris pink is plain, but hats trimmed with ribbons, bows, flowers and intriguing veils also are being shown for midseason wear this year Crowns may be high, low or medium, and they may be of the pillbox type or with brims that soar aloft.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

KATIE'S AIR of magnanimous comprehension of my mother-in-law's state of mind was almost too much for my laughter muscles—and Lillian's as well, as I saw from her twitching lips. We were in just the state of nervous tension which would have been greatly relieved by a hearty laugh, but we knew that such an ebullition would be real dynamite thrown into the already explosive air surrounding Katie.

With an heroic effort I achieved casualness.

"I want to fix a tray for Queen Olga," I said, "but I don't want to interfere with your work. Where will I be least in your way?"

Katie did not protest, as she usually does, that I was never in her way, and by the omission I measured the tension of her nerves. Instead, she cast an appraising eye over the kitchen.

"Eef you take stoof ofer to dot table by vindow in corner," she said, "you no bodder me—mooch."

I ignored the last word, and moved toward the table

"Thank you, Katie," I said sweetly. "I'll try not to get in your way."

"Isn't there something I can do to help you, Katie?" Lillian wheedled. "Set the table or something?"

Mood Improves.

"Table she all set except last tings," my housekeeper began ungraciously. Then Lillian's cheery smile appeared to mellow her, and she gave back an answering smile, feeble, but distinctly a smile.

"But I tink, maybe, you kin put last tings on. It no hot vedder any more, iced tings no get varm till folks sit down, und I no so long now, tings pretty near done. I shoost goin' to put your beeskeets in, Missis Graham."

Her color had vanished. I knew that by the smile she gave me, and my spirits rose accordingly, for, like most home keepers, my mental thermometer is distinctly affected by that of my cook.

"That's a good idea," I told her, making the reservation in my mind that unless Harry and Dicky returned soon, it wouldn't be so good a notion. But, on the other hand, I had no idea when they would be back from their chase of the roof marauder, and we could not keep supper waiting for Harry when Olina and Lillian were so hungry after their perilous journey.

No Waiting.

"Sure ting," Katie returned with the unpierceable complacence which sometimes irritates me but more often amuses me, "I always plan my times shoost right. Den if nobody keeps supper vaiting eferyting nice."

"If anybody keeps you waiting tonight, Katie, he will just have to stand in a corner until supper is over, and then take what's left on a tray in the kitchen."

Katie gave her ever-ready gigle.

"And now, Katie," Lillian interposed briskly, "if you'll just tell me what are the last things, and where they are, I'll go on with the table in the dining room."

Lillian Helps.

"Dere ain't so mooch," Katie returned. "Shoost see dot salad old voman's feexed in dot vooden bowl ees on table mit fork und spoon und salad plates, und feex bread und butter, und peetcher ice vater, und vater glasses, und olives, und celery. I don't vant to put fruit coop on till last meenit, so eet goot und cold, but eet all in sherbet glasses, on ice, ready to put on in two shakes leetle sheep's tail."

"All right Katie," Lillian rejoined cheerily, and began to move swiftly between refrigerator and dining room, while I busied myself with preparing an attractive tray for Queen Olga. On a second big tray, I put an electric toaster, a small tea kettle and a coffee pot with coffee already measured into it. Katie shot a comprehending meaningful look toward the second tray.

"Goot ting lots of electric outlets in Mees Mary's room," she commented. "Meesis Bicket must be goin, start keetchen oop dere. Ven you tink Meester Underwood and Meester Graham coming back? Dees supper almost ready to put on table."

"Put it on when it's done whether they're back or not," Lillian began, then stopped as Dicky's voice and Harry's reached us from just outside the door where they were evidently in colloquy with a state trooper.

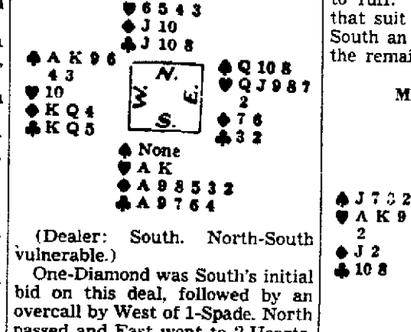
Using this thinking process may save you from making many costly bids and doubles which at first thought appear thoroughly sound.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

One-Diamond was South's initial bid on this deal, followed by an overcall by West of 1-Spade. North passed and East went to 2-Hearts South showed his second suit with a bid of 3-Clubs. With a singleton in his partner's suit and, as he considered, two tricks in each of the minors, West promptly doubled this bid.

To his dismay, South not only made the bid, but an overtrick. He won the original lead of the heart 10 with the A and followed with the heart K, which West ruffed with the club 5. The spake K was next offered and ruffed by declarer, who then cashed his club A, leaving West with the outstanding high trump. The diamond A was next played and followed by a small one to West's Q. West then took the club K, but was obliged to return another spade for South to ruff. A diamond ruff cleared that suit and the club 9 afforded South an entry to his hand to run the remaining diamonds.

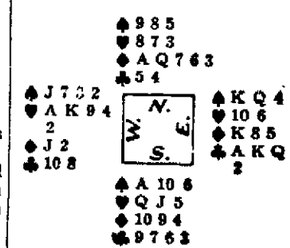
Monday's Problem.



(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

With the diamond 10 led against East's contract of 3-No Trumps, how should North play to set the contract?

Net Tourney Swings Into Second Round

SEEDED players matched in the first round of The News-Journal's annual tennis tournament advanced without exception.

But the second and quarter-final round matches slated to get under way this week-end promised a few upsets along the line.

All of the top-seeded players who drew byes in the first round are slated for action, and the outcome of the clashes in these matches will determine the division favorites.

Play in three of the five divisions reach the quarter-final bracket this week-end. They are the women's singles, junior boys' singles and mixed doubles.

Eliminations in the men's senior singles and doubles have not advanced as rapidly due to a greater number of participants.

Headlining the senior men's singles pairings in the second round are matches pitting Lowell Bourns, who is the defending champion, against Robert Ellison, one of the crack junior players in the city; John Foltz against Paul Massa, Bob Spear against Richard Porch, W. M. O. Campbell against Norm Lerner, W. Ellsworth Slabaugh against Bob Shade and Bob Crawford against Francis O'Brien.

In the men's doubles, the schedule also calls for a number of matches which promise interesting results. The same can be said about the other divisions.

Play in the rounds for which pairings are announced today must be completed by Monday night.

Softball Title at Stake in League Park Games Sunday

LEAGUE PARK'S softball attendance record is expected to be shattered Sunday when the semi-finals and finals of the district tournament are staged there.

A general anticipation of a resumption of the sterling pitching battles which marked the opening round games last Sunday, is expected to pack the park to capacity, according to the tournament director, Don D. Cram.

The semi-final games will feature three Mansfield teams, Beeber-Ross Beers, DeLuxe Cabs and Hartman Electrics. The other semi-final berth is filled by the Marion Merchants.

The first game at 2 p. m. will pit the DeLuxe Cabs against the Hartman Electrics, and an hour later the Beeber-Ross club will engage the lone out-of-town survivor.

Both of these games are scheduled for seven innings, with the finals tentatively billed at 4:30 p. m. slated for the regulation distance.

All of the pitchers who held the spotlight in the opening games last Sunday will go to the hill Sunday. Ben Fried, who struck out 18 while allowing only one hit as the Cabs defeated a Mt. Vernon team, will be opposed by Seigman.

Seigman shared the pitching spotlight by winning two games last Sunday. He pulled the "iron man" stunt against the Ashland Faultless Rubbers and Timken Roller Bearings.

Jim Fullager, who fashioned a masterful performance for the Beers against the Shellmar Products of Mt. Vernon, will be opposed by Millisor. The Marion hurler pitched magnificently to trim the Siler Hatcheries of Ashland.

Due to the manner in which the surviving teams outclassed their first round opponents, the outcome of the tournament in which a successor to the East End Nite club as champion will be determined is problematical.

Dive for N.C.O. Title in Park Pool Sunday

A GLITTERING field of divers headed by Tony Schadek promises a spectacular water show at Liberty park Sunday.

At 4 p. m. Sunday the pool at the north Mansfield park will be the scene of the N.C.O. diving championships, the first competition of this type ever staged in the district.

Schadek, who won the N.C.O. low board title last summer, heads the list of contenders in the competition in which each participant will be required to make 10 dives, five required and five optional.

Russell von Wieder, manager of the Liberty park pool and director of the diving show, said today that he expected at least a dozen participants.

Included among the widely known divers invited to participate are Serwinski of Fremont Ross, runner-up in the national interscholastics in Philadelphia last spring, and Eddie McVehil of Canton, state schoolboy low-board champion. Von Wieder has not learned definitely whether either will compete Sunday.

Liberty park will be represented by five divers, von Wieder said. In addition to Schadek, the Liberty park team will include Bradford Smith of Ohio State, Joseph Wendling, John Weber and P. Zimmerman, all competent in this specialty.

Richard Shaw of Mansfield high school swimming fame will represent Westbrook Country club in the competition. Giles Simon of Shelby is also listed among the entrants.

Awards in the water tournament will be furnished by the Yuncker Bros. sports store, Davis Home furnishings and von Wieder.

Legion Plays at Lancaster

WHETHER it will be Mansfield's American Legion club or Lancaster which will meet Jackson to determine the second half championship in the Central Ohio semi-pro league will be decided Sunday at Lancaster.

The winner of this game will meet Jackson a week from Sunday to determine an opponent for Newark in the titular play-off series, Manager Dewey Durant has been informed.

Idle last week, Durant said today that his team will be at full strength for the Lancaster invasion. He has not selected his pitcher, but indicated that Harold Geiger will probably get the call.

Face Unbeaten Ontario Club Here Sunday

The next team to attempt to halt the winning streak of the Ontario baseball team is the Mansfield Merchants, who will engage George Marshall's undefeated outfit at Liberty park at 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

The two teams stack up fairly even on paper, and the battle should draw a record crowd to Liberty park.

Howard Patterson, who hurled for the American Legion club until he suffered a sore arm, will toil for the visitors. Patterson's sore arm has responded to treatment. Manager Pete Metz or Russ Remy will hurl for the hosts.

Laffoon Sets Sub-Par Pace

CLEVELAND—(AP)— This $10,000 Cleveland open golf tournament is becoming a strictly sub-par affair, paced by swarthy Ky Laffoon. The Chicago pro held a two-stroke lead with 139 for 36 holes as a field of 92 players entered the third 18-hole round today.

Laffoon became a favorite for the $3,000 first place money yesterday when he carded a 69 on Oakwood country club's par 71 course. He turned in 9-hole counts of 36 and 34 to add to his first round 70.

Stops Sox, 7-0, Without Hit

A no-hit game fashioned by Freiheit of the Tigers featured the city recreation baseball games at the Fairground yesterday.

Freiheit was master all the way as he stopped the White Sox, 7 to 0, in the five inning Intermediate league game. He struck out nine, and only issued two walks. Konves led the attack for the Tigers with a double and single.

In the other Intermediate league game, Phillips yielded only two hits as he hurled the Athletics to a 11 to 0 victory over the White Sox. Phillips, Maul and Weber led the attack for the Athletics with two hits apiece.

Although allowing only one hit, Hahn and Reese gave up 10 walks to enable the Giants to defeat the Cubs, 8 to 7, in a Junior league tilt.

Pitching Weakness Again Hurts Indians

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—If loyal followers of the Cleveland Indians retained any pennant hopes after the recent disastrous series with the pace-setting New York Yankees they had been jolted rudely today.

Coming here after losing a twin bill to the cellar-dwelling St. Louis Browns, the Tribe was able to gain only an even break in a doubleheader with the sixth-place Chicago White Sox. Cleveland won the first game 12 to 9 in 10 innings and lost the second 6 to 5.

In the split with the White Sox yesterday it became increasingly apparent that Manager Oscar Vitt does not have a pitching staff stout enough to overhaul the Yanks. Facing a string of nine double-headers in 19 days the Indian pilot must necessarily call frequently on his second string moundsmen and they simply do not measure up to major league standards.

Denny Galehouse proved this once again in yesterday's nightcap. The White Sox pounded him for 14 hits and took full advantage of five bases on balls which he issued.

* * *

MEL HARDER started the game for the Indians, but had two very bad innings. He was nicked for four runs in the fourth round and then knocked from the box as the White Sox pushed across five more in the eighth. Earl Whitehill then came on and gained credit for the victory, his eighth of the year.

Tyger Gridsters To Report Sept. 1

BASEBALL, golf and other summer games continue to hold the sports stage, but football is just around the corner.

Aspiring gridiron gladiators of Mansfield high school were notified by Coach J. Russell Murphy in this week's mail of the first practice session of the season, and with it came a warning that condition will be important as a scrimmage is on the opening day's schedule

STOCKS ROUND OUT FULL WEEK OF DECLINES

Volume Light Today After Yesterday's Spurt; Bonds Irregular.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — Stocks eased fractions to a point in light trading today, rounding out a full week of decline.

Volume was light after yesterday's spurt of activity to the largest total since July 27.

Bonds made an irregular decline in moderate turnover. Grains were steadier after wheat and corn recently had fallen to new 5-year lows.

Steel shares were supported late in the session. Bethlehem came back from a half point decline and U. S. Steel did likewise. Youngstown and Republic moved narrowly.

Chrysler rallied from a decline of more than a point and General Motors firmed from its low. Railroad issues were steady at the opening, sagged and then rallied. Near the close, New York Central was unchanged and others were down small amounts. Delaware & Hudson registered a small gain.

Douglas Aircraft touched 47⅛ off ½ and then met support. Jersey was firm in the oils. Utility issues were dull at minor declines. A few issues moved wildly. Ingersoll Rand on a few transactions lost 3 points. International Harvester declined more than a point. Mail order shares, recent weak spots, rallied moderately.

Packed Theater Greets Hillbilly Radio Performers

An audience that packed the Madison theater to the roof last night gave the Renfro Valley Barn Dance troupe a reception that must have warmed the hearts of every member and indicated that the Renfro crew is a favorite radio program in this vicinity.

Many of the entertainers are real Kentucky hillbillies who had never "performed" outside their native hills before John Lair, radio talent scout and manager found them. The Coon Creek girls are all Kentuckians except Violet who hails from the hills of southern Ohio. But Lily Mae and her sister Rosie really come from a little place called Pinchem-Tight Hollow. Red Foley, the boy who sings the soft, mournful hill ballads so well, is from near Berea, Ky.

Every group and entertainer was given a warm reception last night—A'nt Idy and Little Clifford, (Idy is a friendly little soul with a voice like Sophie Tucker;) the Girls of the Golden West; Slim Miller, Whitey Ford who doubles as the master of ceremonies and the Duke of Paducah; the boys' band, the "Clark Gable" of the Valley folks; A'nt Idy's husband, and a special attraction, the Range Riders who came to Mansfield a day early for tonight's broadcast from the Madison stage at 9 o'clock. The program will be presented over WLW and the Mutual network.

CARROLL TAKEN TO MAINE PEN

Convicted Of Same Murder For Which Youth Is Serving Life In Prison.

Dwyer testified that Carroll so intimidated him that he decided to sacrifice his freedom and confess a murder he did not commit.

Carroll heard the jury's verdict without betraying a trace of emotion, but his 36-year-old wife, Ruby, sitting 10 feet away, shook her head in disbelief and dabbed her eyes with a handkerchief.

The key figure in the strange drama of murder and incest—Barbara Carroll—was at a movie.

Barbara's romance with young Dwyer indirectly motivated the murder of Dr. Littlefield last Oct. 13. When "Buddy" suffered remorse for having seduced Barbara, he testified she told him that she had been seduced before—by her own father. Dwyer passed on this confidence to Dr. Littlefield and the physician threatened to expose Carroll. Carroll, in a rage, bludgeoned and strangled him.

The verdict came at 7:50 p. m. (EST) on the 11th day of the trial. The jurors had deliberated five hours and 35 minutes.

That's Taproom Girl's Remedy For Reducing Over-Indulgence.

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Mary Speshok, comely young barmaid, thinks more of her number in the nation's taprooms would reduce over-indulgence. "When a girl is behind the bar," she said, "the men are more careful of their conduct and they're not so likely to take too much."

"Bouncing" objectionable patrons is just a matter of endurance with her: "I simply ignore them and finally they get tired and leave."

Checking Up On Dead and Wounded in Casualty Lists of Primary Voting

—By JANE WILLIAMS

AND NOW that the primary wars are over, let's take a look at the dead and wounded.

Perhaps the school bond issue is numbered among the latter and may be resuscitated at a later election. Surely no issue can be dead when 60 per cent of the voters favor it. It is possible that if it is brought before the voters again at a special election within a few weeks, unencumbered by other tax-raising levies, it may pass.

While there might be a smaller vote on it at a special election, surely all those who favor it, (5,558 voted for it Tuesday) would be willing to go to the polls again to vote for it. If it isn't voted on within the next few weeks Mansfield will lose the opportunity to collect almost a half million dollars from the federal spending fund—to which we all must contribute—for WPA gives us only to Oct. 1 to take it or leave it.

* * *

AS for the relief levies, they were defeated so overwhelmingly in every section of the city and county that unless officials are blind they must know that those levies are numbered among the primary dead. The city relief levy gained only a little more than 29 per cent of all the votes cast, while the township levy for relief won only 32½ per cent of the votes.

These figures tell their own story. Neither the city nor the township will ever vote them onto the tax books. Why, then, don't city and township officials take the problem, pick it to pieces, analyze it, eliminate a good share of it, and THEN look for the solution?

No one, with any decency or humanity, wants the deserving poor to suffer for food or shelter; on the other hand, too many Mansfield people have tried to get people on relief to work for them and have been laughed at. Why isn't there some way to compel people on relief to work when they have an opportunity, or if there is such a way, why isn't it enforced?

Weeding out the chiselers and finding a more direct way of buying food and passing it out to relief clients is the first step in the local relief problem. Until that is done, officials will find citizens pretty indifferent to the problem.

* * *

HEADING the list of "dead" after Tuesday's battle is, of course, Martin Davey. Many of us who have the interests of Ohio at heart, sincerely hope that no political adrenalin will ever be administered; that he will retire, after Jan. 1, to his principality at Kent there to live the life of a country squire, far from the maddening scream of highway patrol sirens to which he has grown accustomed on his 80-mile-an-hour dashes about the country under patrol escort

There in the quietness of Kent, we hope he may browse among his trees, of which he once recited so beautifully and touchingly; that he may forget "the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune," and that in the quiet even-tide of his life, he may find enjoyment in reminding Myrna The Faithful that while they ruled Ohio, they ruled quite merrily.

Yes indeedy, quite merrily.

* * *

GREATEST victor emerging from the primary jousts was Charles Sawyer, the dignified but valiant Cincinnati gladiator who went into the arena armed with a righteous indignation and a firm conviction that honesty, intelligence and common horse sense could work out most of Ohio's problems, and restore it to a place of esteem in the eyes of the other 47 states.

Marines Arrest 3 Japs In Shanghai Clash

SUBDUE ARMED TRIO SEIZED IN SETTLEMENT

Japs Menaced Chinese Natives With Pistols, American Forces Report.

(By United Press)

SHANGHAI—United States marines today arrested and subdued three Japanese army special service operatives whom they found threatening Chinese civilians with pistols in the American marine sector of the international settlement.

Two of the Japanese officers were handed over to Japanese military authorities with a demand that they be punished. The third, released on parole to seek treatment for the injuries he received in the incident,, violated his parole and escaped.

The Japanese, operatives in what approximates an army secret service, were demanding that Chinese civilians haul down Chinese flags, displayed today on the occasion of the first anniversary of the start of the battle of Shanghai—the first mass defense that a Chinese army offered the Japanese in the war.

Others Also Arrested.

Municipal police arrested three Japanese operatives who were threatening Chinese civilians elsewhere in the settlement.

Later French police arrested six Japanese who were similarly threatening Chinese in the French concession, trying to make them take down Chinese flags, and also were scattering anti-foreign leaflets. It was believed the Japanese were handed to Japanese authorities.

American, British and French authorities were so angry over the incidents, and the scattering of anti-foreign leaflets by Japanese airplanes and men in the streets, that they were understood to be drafting a statement asserting that though they were doing all they could to preserve order in the international settlement, Japanese interference was jeopardizing their work.

Coach Russ Murphy is quiet over this fall's football prospects at Mansfield high, but if condition means anything, the team should fare fairly well. In checking up on what his gridders are doing during the summer vacation, Murphy found that about 20 of the candidates are working on farms and doing everything from piloting horses from behind plows to milking cows.

It is rather unusual for a hitch hiker to thumb a ride in an airplane, but Dick Harrison, of Mansfield did it this week. Dick, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Harrison, 8 Schmitt court, visited relatives in Erie, Pa., and hitch hiked home yesterday arriving at noon. At Erie he thumbed a ride with a man in an auto who inquired where he was going. "I'll take you as far as Conneaut," he said, "but not in an auto." Several miles out of Erie he drove into the airport, brought a plane out onto the field and told Harrison to climb into the back seat. From the Conneaut airport the Mansfielder thumbed his way home in a short time.

While the oats yield hasn't been all that it should be this year, according to Mansfield millers, one Richland county farmer has little kick coming. The average yield per acre in a good year is between 50 and 60 bushels, and this summer it averages about 40. However, when Howard Kochenderfer, who has a farm one mile north of Adario, threshed this week, he obtained 1,575 bushels from 21 acres, an average of 75 bushels to the acre. The farm has never gone modern and is still operated with "horsepower" on the hoof.

They took complete camping equipment along on a two-wheel trailer which they made. The boys left at 5:30 a. m. Wednesday, and arrived at the lake at 10 a. m.

OFFICIALS HINT AT MURDER IN STRANGE CASE

Reopen Inquiry Into Illinois Mystery; Youngsters Died In Old-Type Ice Box.

(By International News Service)

BEARDSTOWN, Ill.—Strange goings-on in an isolated Pike county farmhouse today led authorities to press anew their investigation of the deaths of three small children found smothered in an old type ice box on the farm three months ago.

The victims were Henry Petri, 8, and his sisters, Emma, 10, and Alberta, 5. When their bodies were discovered, it was believed the three youngsters had been trapped accidentally in the refrigerator while playing "hide and seek."

But this theory never was fully accepted and a coroner's jury continued its hearings indefinitely.

Turn to Murder Theory.

Now, authorities are convinced the children were murdered. They base this conclusion on a series of mysterious happenings at the Petri farm which so frightened the parents they decided to move.

Most inexplicable was Mrs. Petri's assertion that early last week she found a broken red celluloid ring on the floor of the bedroom. The ring, the mother said, was worn by Emma the morning of the day she and the other children were found dead. The ring was not on Emma's hand when her body was found.

Mrs. Petri insisted the room had been cleaned and swept many times since the day of the tragedy, May 9. It was not possible, the mother said, that she could have failed to see the ring if it had been there all the time.

A Snarling Face.

Finding of the broken ring led the Petris to move. Authorities said they feared their home was "haunted."

Also without suitable explanation was the mother's report to police three weks ago that she had seen the snarling face of a man pressed against a window. He disappeared when she screamed.

A week later, the Petris reported, they returned home to find the house ransacked, clothing and papers spread over the floor, and a floor board ripped up.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Most Anyone Can Sculp a Barrel So Pegler Thinks Bufano Gets Off Easily

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Preliminary studies in the art of sculpture have encouraged your correspondent in his belief that it will be no trick at all to make a better statue than the Bufano smokestack with which it is proposed to deface the natural beauty of Christmas Tree Point in San Francisco.

It turns out that professional sculptors have some rather clever methods of avoiding difficult problems, and it would seem from the sketch of Mr. Bufano's statue of St. Francis of Assisi that he is highly professional in one sense, at least.

His figure is barrel-shaped up to a point just north of the hips and rises from there with the arms upraised in a plain, tubular Y, similar to the brass Siamese hose couplings which are placed on the fronts of modern office buildings for the convenience of the fire departments.

Now, feet, legs and folds of garments present artistic difficulties, and Mr. Bufano has avoided all of them with his tubular effect

* * *

Having been an apprentice comic artist many years ago, your correspondent detects in this something other than a mere striving for simplicity.

Comic artists who cannot draw very well have a practice of drawing their people standing behind a fence, which is not very hard to draw. The faces of the figures are then drawn above this line, with or without hats, depending on the artist's facility with hats.

This spares the artist the difficulty of drawing the figures and feet, and even the hands unless he feels sufficiently confident of his handiwork

Mr. Rube Goldberg whose work Mr. Bufano may study in the original on the walls of the San Francisco Press club, is a literal realist who has always made hands in close detail, including the nail on each finger and thumb.

* * *

Your correspondent has tried to follow the Goldberg style as being more honest than that of Mr Bud Fisher, a rival master of the same period. Mr Fisher's Mutt and Jeff always wore gloves, even in bed, in swimming and at the table. There was a rather harsh artistic dispute for a spell between those young comic artists who held for purity and fingernails and those followers of Mr. Fisher who drew gloves.

Mr. Fisher also had a habit of drawing Mr Mutt vanishing from the panel with a cry of "Awk," with just his shoes and the bottoms of his trousers legs showing Clever, but was it sincere?

Like the fence and the gloves, it was not sincere, and that is another reason for decrying Bufano's St. Francis in a barrel. Anybody can sculp a barrel.

Plagiarism is a grave charge to bring against an artist, and your correspondent offers the following accusation only after the most serious consideration

Bufano's St Francis is a shameless steal from a famous old standard art work familiar to millions at home and abroad and instinctively associated with Christmas The rigid posture, the outstretched arms and the full skirt are unmistakable, and Mr. Bufano is hereby charged with plagiarizing the old baker's design of the wife of the gingerbread man
